Fact finders visit Opportunity Centre

Officials from the Government's 'Tackling Worklessness Review Team' visited the Opportunity Centre on Manchester Road recently to pick up tips on how to help people into work.

The delegation formed part of a wider group who in turn visited other venues across the Bradford District.

Pictured are Nick Whiteside & Arif Awan from the Opportunity Centre and sitting between them is Alison Knight from Jobcentre Plus. Councillor Stephen Houghton, from Barnsley and chair of the review team is sitting next to Arif and beside him is Andrew Maginn from Communities and Local Government.

Three Peaks Challenge raises charity cash

Twelve local residents and workers undertook the arduous 'Three Peak Challenge' to raise money for the Lord Mayor's Appeal 2008/09 & Bradford Trident's Older Peoples Project Christmas Party

Organised by Bradford Trident's Healthy Lifestyles Team and the Neighbourhood Wardens the group faced one of the worst ever weather days on record for August. With constant rain, wind and cloud visibility was poor and underfoot was boggy Pen-y-Ghent was the first peak on the route. Walk leader Kammy Siddique commented, 'It was unbelievable, like running in water.' And he should know as the leader for the walk he ended up to his knees in the bog!

The challenging conditions held up the pace and took it out of some of the walkers. After 11 miles they met the mini bus exhausted and wet. 'The Magnificent Seven' survivors continued up Wherside. Wet through in minutes, they waded on.

By the time Wherside was conquered it was too late to take on the last peak due to severe weather conditions and loss of light. Exhausted everyone returned to the barn to stay over night. The following day the final four walkers, accompanied by Chas Stansfield, as new walk leader, got up at 5.30 to take on Ingleborough and finish the challenge.

When asked what motivated him to go all the way Neighbourhood Warden Tufail Rehman replied, 'I just thought of the older people enjoying their Christmas Party and it kept me going.' PCSO Claire Williams added, 'I did not come all this way to not finish it!'

Through the mist and determination the walkers raised over £1000 for the chosen good causes.

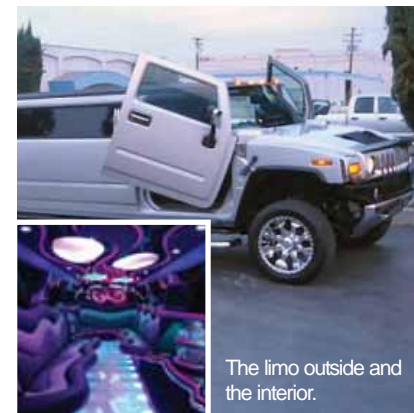

100% school attendance wins 'Limo Day' treat

Pupils from Newby Primary School who achieved 100% attendance over the year were treated to a ride in a limo at the end of the last school year. Over 90 pupils enjoyed a half hour tour around the area and mums & dads joined in too!

'Good attendance at school helps achievement and to have a 100% record deserves recognition and reward,' says Head Teacher Mike Latham. 'The role of parents should not be underestimated either because it is them who make sure children get to school regularly and on time.'

Obesity under the spotlight

Shree Prajapati Association UK's 28th annual Mahila Samelan was hosted by Shree Prajapati Association Bradford at the Punjab Community Centre at the end of April.

The conference explored the subject of obesity; a health issue, which is very prominent in the media and due to the fact that Bradford was the obesity capital of the UK in 2006.

The association's 13 branches were well represented with 600 delegates attending. The keynote speakers of the day were: Jane Thompson, Public Health Manager (Obesity), Bradford and Airedale TPCT and Ann Hobbiss RD, Bradford NHS Acute Hospitals Foundation Trust, Bradford and Airedale TPCT.

Gentle exercise routines for the elderly were demonstrated by Shakuntla Sharma, Asian Health Development Officer, Bradford and Airedale TPCT. Amjad Bashir, chairman of ZOUC, tea bar & grill, demonstrated the preparation of two quick and easy salads, one way of achieving the recommended five portions of fruit and vegetables per day.

All delegates were treated to a healthy vegetarian Indian meal which encompassed key areas of the healthy eat well plate. The conference was supported by the British Heart Foundation, Diabetics UK, the Food Standards Agency, Natural England and the NHS, who supplied their publications for the conference packs. Lloyds Pharmacy supplied Body Mass Index Calculators and Bradford Metropolitan Council stepped in with free 'B-Active' pedometers.

The hall was just big enough.

Bike ride helps cancer charity

Nazaket Ali, Senior Youth Worker with Bradford Youth Service from West Bowling, has just completed a 250 mile charity cycle ride from Odsal Stadium to Edinburgh.

Nazaket was accompanied by other Youth Workers as well as 7 young people from Bradford South. All participants had been in training for two months for this gruelling expedition. Nazaket raised over £1000 for Marie Curie Cancer Hospice, Leeds Road. The young people raised money for Save the Children.

'This project was a brilliant experience but physically really hard work, the 250 miles were completed in 4 days. We cycled up mountains and across rivers, the scenery was breathtaking,' said Nazaket.

In 2001 Nazaket led a group of young cyclists from West Bowling to cycle to the Lake District when they raised £2400 for Cancer Research UK. Next year Nazaket is planning, with Bradford Youth Service, to cycle with a group of young people to Hamm in Germany which is twinned with Bradford.

High winds fail to blow out Summer Celebration

Farewell to staff trio...

Bradford Trident wished good luck and best wishes to three staff stalwarts who have left the organisation after many years of hard work and commitment.

Chas Stansfield, Programme Manager for Education, Youth & Community Involvement, retired at the end of September. Chas was one of the team who developed the original £50m bid for New Deal for Communities cash. His contribution to the successes of Trident has been immense. His work with schools in particular has helped raise the levels of achievement in the area no end. Chas also pushed forward work to improve community facilities and support local community organisations.

Cath Stone, Neighbourhood Wardens Team Leader, also left at the end of September to take up work with the Home Office. Neighbourhood Wardens were a new concept six years ago when the Trident Team began and Cath made a major contribution to shaping the way the service is delivered.

Housing Projects Manager Wayne Noteman left in July to work with housing company Firebird. Wayne worked assiduously to deliver the award winning Facelift Plus housing improvement scheme that has benefited hundreds of homes in the area and has become a blueprint for similar schemes in the Bradford District and beyond.

Two directors also moved on over the summer. Councillor Mohammed

Jamil, representing the Conservatives, and Business Director Vipin Joshi both served with enthusiasm and dedication making a valued contribution to the progress of Trident.

Chair of Bradford Trident, Councillor Ian Greenwood, praised all departing directors and staff saying, 'Many of the projects undertaken by Bradford Trident have been pioneering, groundbreaking and innovative. It takes open-minded, forward thinking and determined directors to support such projects and hard working, resilient and enthusiastic staff to deliver them. These people fit the bill in all respects and I thank them wholeheartedly for the enormous contribution they have made.'

Soaking Summer doesn't drown Children's Centre fun!

In spite of the seemingly endless rain Woodroyd Children's Centre staff took their own brand of sunshine to the children and families in local parks every Tuesday and Thursday through the holidays.

There were craft activities, games, face painting and, when the weather wasn't too bad, Bouncy Castles. 'The kids loved it and the events brought the community together,' said Family Services Manager Shameen Mohammed. 'The atmosphere was great and people were asking if this was happening anywhere else in Bradford.'

'We also held an indoor summer playscheme for children, half the places were for children with Special Educational Needs.'

A group of committed staff and volunteers ran activities within the centre and also took the children out on trips to the Airport and the Industrial Museum, continued Shameen. 'The enthusiasm and energy of international volunteers, Family Support workers and Nursery Staff contributed to making this scheme highly successful.'

...and coming up...

Woodroyd Children's Centre waits with a warm welcome for parents and young children wanting to attend groups and activities that run most days of the week. Just turn up or pick up a leaflet upstairs in the Woodroyd Centre.

Business | 7

Jonathan Smith, a Marketing Consultant with CS Communicate and established GRID member, cut short his weekend break in the Lake District to attend the GRID's latest networking event.

The event took place on the 17th July at the Cedar Court Hotel and was another fantastic opportunity for local businesses and entrepreneurs to meet, share ideas and contacts, develop new skills and enjoy the excellent culinary delights provided by Cedar Court.

Jane Vincent, MD and founder of Horizon Recruitment spoke passionately and inspiringly about her experiences in developing the well-renowned business she has today. Mr Smith said, 'I would have not made the journey from the Lake District if it was not useful. The GRID events are productive and worthwhile as they attract a diverse a range of people with a wealth of knowledge and wisdom.'

Before joining CS Communicate Ltd he spent 15 years as Marketing Lecturer and Department Head for Travel and Tourism at Park Lane College in Leeds and is also the Director for 'Arts-mix', which supports and encourages artists.

Mr Smith believes in the regeneration and economic development of Bradford and recognises the work the GRID is doing to support this. He points out, 'I believe in what Bradford is doing to engage with the wider community and being inclusive as well as breaking down barriers. People see new businesses as 'needy', but what we need to remember is that they are the big businesses of the future. Creating equal opportunities is important to CS Communicate.'

'I am glad I went to the GRID network event. I had a really good time and met a range of different people. I really enjoyed the speed network event, as it breaks down barriers and gets people to talk to one another and network. Out of all the network events I go to, and I attend quite a lot, the GRID's events are the best!'

TV stardom for Lazeez

Popular Channel 4 cookery show 'Come Dine With Me' chose West Bowling's Lazeez Halal Meat and Mini Market as a location for one of the shows in the latest series.

A film crew spent most of an afternoon filming contestants as they bought ingredients for their chosen dishes.

Proprietor Anwar Sher says, 'It's quite an honour to be on the show and I'm looking forward to seeing it even though we don't know yet when it will be broadcast.'

The shop has been open for 12 years and the butchers boast over 100 years experience behind them. The shop sells a full range of halal meat products including goat.

'I'm very proud of the fact that we have a very mixed customer base,' comments Anwar. 'In addition to the Asian customers you would expect we also have many white and African-Caribbean customers, some of whom come from outside the area by word of mouth recommendation.'

Our photos show two of the butchers at work and Anwar, on the right, with some of his team outside the shop.

100% staffing increase as Neighbourhood Policing takes centre stage...

Following the recent re-organisation of Bradford's police divisions BD5 talked to Chief Superintendent Sarah Brown and Inspector Zahid Khan to get the latest news on policing in the Trident area.

'Trident is in the new Bradford South Division,' says Chief Superintendent Brown. 'One of the main ideas behind the re-organisation was to have our divisional boundaries matching ward boundaries. That way we can deliver Neighbourhood Policing Teams to wards.'

'By having teams of officers dedicated to specific wards we can make even bigger strides in the fight against crime.' -

Chief Superintendent Sarah Brown

'In fact it was our experience of the success of the Trident Police Team that encouraged us to make the move and deliver the blueprint across the district,' she continues. 'By having teams of officers dedicated to specific wards we can make even bigger strides in the fight against crime and anti social behaviour. And the good news is we have increased staffing by 100%.'

The new structure for Neighbourhood Policing in Bradford South is headed by Chief Inspector Paul Hepworth. There are 6 Neighbourhood Policing Teams and each has an Inspector, three Sergeants and a number of Constables and Police Community Support Officers.

Tackling fear of crime top priority...

'Despite public perception levels of actual crime are down nationwide and in the Trident area,' comments Inspector Khan. 'House burglary, car crime and anti social behaviour is much reduced. Sadly there have been a couple of unfortunate incidents recently but these really are against the trend.'

'One of the great positives of having Neighbourhood Policing Teams is the close community contact it encourages. As time goes on we will be carrying on working hard to maintain our visible presence and reduce that fear of crime.'

Chief Superintendent Brown concluded by saying, 'Over recent years great work has been done tackling crime in the area. Our commitment to working with communities is strengthened by these new developments and we are determined to keep crime down in the Trident area.'

The Trident Police Team can be contacted on 01274 376668. They are also Police Contact Points from 2.00pm - 4.00pm at the Park Lane Centre on Tuesdays and the Woodroyd Centre on Thursdays.
